New York College of Podiatric Medicine presents
CONTEMPORARY APPROACHES AT GLEN COVE
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 2015
NORTH SHORE UNIVERSITY / LONG ISLAND JEWISH HOSPITAL AT GLEN COVE
101 ST. ANDREWS LANE
PRATT AUDITORIUM–DOSORIS WAY

Once again, we present this seminar in memory of Louis Anthony Alchermes, DPM, the first chief of the podiatry section at the previously-named Community Hospital at Glen Cove.

As a 1935 graduate of the First Institute of Podiatry (now NYCMP), and throughout his professional career, Dr. Alchermes was an energetic pioneer and advocate for interdisciplinary educational seminars between podiatric medicine/surgery and allopathic medicine. In 1952, he was a charter member in the founding of the American Podiatry Council, whose focus was the dissemination of scientific studies in the field of podiatry.

An interdisciplinary seminar to include podiatric and other medical specialists with a focus on lower extremity pathology.

SEMINAR GOALS & OBJECTIVES
This year's seminar will have as its objectives, to bring to the attendee through the various lectures that will be offered, interesting and current perspectives in:

PODOPEDIATRICS
SHAVE BIOPSY TECHNIQUES FOR THE NAIL UNIT
NEW CONCEPTS IN REARFOOT AND FOREFOOT SURGERY
CURRENT ISSUES IN ANESTHESIA AS THEY PERTAIN TO THE PODIATRIC SURGEON
THE USE OF AMNIOTIC TISSUE IN THE HEALING OF DIFFICULT DIABETIC/LOWER EXTREMITY ULCERS
IMAGING IN THE DIABETIC FOOT
AN OVERVIEW OF SERONEGATIVE ARTHROPATHY

YOU CAN REGISTER ONLINE AT www.nycpm.edu/cmelist.asp