White Coat Ceremony 2017: A Rite of Passage

September marks the cyclical beginning of the academic year and autumnal equinox. For the students at NYCPM it is the hallmark of a very poignant moment in their professional life as they embark on their journey to becoming a doctor. One-hundred students, alongside their friends, relatives, and the NYCPM community gathered together on the evening of September 10th at the New York Academy of Medicine.

The Class of 2017 was presented with the traditional medical garb, the White Coat, by Dr. Jonathan Haber, DPM, and Chair of NYCPM's Admissions Committee as well as its members. Dr. Michael J. Trepal, DPM, Vice President for Academic Affairs & Dean, administered the Hippocratic Oath.

The White Coat Ceremony is a long standing tradition with the 1st ceremony originating at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. NYCPM was the 1st Podiatric Medical College to adopt this ritual. The ceremony continues to bring to life a doctor's loyalty, commitment, and well-being of their patients.

The ceremony was adorned with laudatory sounds by musicians from the Julliard School, as well as Class of 2017 student, Ali Saleh, singing the National Anthem. The audience was addressed by Keynote Speaker Jaime Torres, DPM, Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services – Region II.

Meet Audrey Snell, Class of 2017

HOMETOWN Bogota, NJ

UNDERGRADUATE INSTITUTION New Jersey Institute of Technology,
Newark, NJ

What made you decide to pursue a career in podiatric medicine?

I always knew I wanted to be in the medical field, but once I learned about podiatry, I was certain it was the field I wanted to pursue a career in. As a woman in podiatry, I hope to have a family life while still doing what I love, so it turned out to be a perfect fit for me.

What made you decide to attend NYCPM?

NYCPM had always been my first choice once I decided to get into podiatry. The location is ideal and I love everything about the school. I love that the clinic is located in the same building as our classes. Due to the fact that our school is located in New York City, it generates a very diverse group of patients with multiple clinical issues that I may not have been able to see had the location of our school been in a smaller, secluded area. From an academic standpoint, NYCPM was exactly what I was looking for and I knew I would be positioning myself for an all around education that would prepare me well for the Boards.

What activities are you involved in at NYCPM?

I am part of the student anatomical research team where I work with fellow students alongside Dr. D'Antoni and Dr. Dilandro. I have attended some meetings and lectures provided by different clubs at NYCPM and I plan on becoming part of some this fall to broaden my outlook and experience and knowledge in the field.

What is your favorite part about being a student at NYCPM or in NYC in general?

My favorite part about being a student at NYCPM is the feeling of a tight knit community. With class sizes being relatively small, I have been provided with the opportunity to get to know my classmates very well and have already begun to build long-lasting relationships. Everyone is helpful and I would not hesitate to approach a peer or staff member with any issue or inquiry that I may have.

What advice do you have for incoming students?

My advice for incoming students is to come in with an open mind and make the best out of any situation that comes your way. It is an amazing opportunity and there is so much to learn. NYCPM provides you with the tools; you just have to be willing to learn how to use them. Be ready to work hard, but also enjoy the life that NYC and NYCPM present to you!
