Service for September 11th ...

September 11th is now marked as the National Day of Service and Remembrance, and NYCPM students began what they hope will be an annual tradition of giving and helping those in need. Focusing on The Living Room, a 24-hour drop-in shelter in the Bronx, students raised $229.68, 100% of which will be used to buy badly needed socks and basic living supplies. Thomas Ehlers (2019), Student Association President, who organized the fundraising drive, was grateful for and impressed by the students' generosity and thoughtfulness. ...

... And More Student Fundraising ...

ASPS (American Society of Podiatric Surgeons Surgery Club) held a bake sale at around the same time to raise money for Direct Relief, a "rare 100% efficient and transparent" charity that provides hurricane relief in Texas and Florida, according to Shama Gupta (2020). The bake sale raised $245.63. Priya Patel, ASPS Secretary, coordinated the fundraiser.

... And Remembering The Lost

There are services annually at the WTC site with the reading of the names of those who died that day, but for the first time, the names of those who died subsequently due to health issues related to their service as workers and volunteers at Ground Zero were read this year. Arthur Gudeon, DPM ('60) had volunteered at Ground Zero, and was asked to read names on the new list, including that of Tracey Che, DPM, who worked with Dr. Gudeon in their "makeshift podiatry office" in a pew in St. Paul's Chapel, and who died at age 50 of a lung condition.

Alumni Arthur Gudeon, DPM ('60) and Kathleen Reilly Fallon, DPM ('94), both read names at the services for 9/11 victims at the WTC site.
