New York College of Podiatric Medicine

NYCPM's Hospital Affiliations Span Neighborhoods and Continents

In order to provide the broadest and most inclusive educational experiences possible for its students, as well as excellent patient care, the New York College of Podiatric Medicine has forged affiliations with hospitals and universities across New York City and the globe.

Currently, NYCPM has over 170 affiliations for senior student externships/clerkships across the United States, including New York Hospital Queens, Beth Israel Hospital Manhattan, The University Hospital of New Jersey, Cambridge Medical Center Boston, the Swedish Medical Center Seattle, The University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, The University of Texas San Antonio, many Kaiser facilities across the Western United States, and more than 50% of the country's Department of Veteran's Affairs Hospitals. In addition, the College has agreements with universities in Ireland (National University of Ireland, Galway); Spain (Universidad Complutense de Madrid); Poland (Jagiellonian University of Krakow), Australia (University of South Australia and University of Western Australia) and Canada (the Université du Québec à Trois-Rivières). These student exchanges send NYCPM students abroad and bring dozens of students to the College annually for rotations that add valuable knowledge and experience in both directions.

In addition, NYCPM has local clinical affiliations so that faculty can treat patients and students and residents can observe at the Foot Center of New York (Manhattan); Metropolitan, Lincoln and Harlem Hospitals (all New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation hospitals in Manhattan) as well as at St. Luke's. Our academic and clinical affiliations in the Bronx, with Morrisania Diagnostic and Treatment Center and the Segundo Ruiz Belvis Diagnostic & Treatment Center (HHC), extend our clinical practice to that borough.
