

Alain O. Silverio, Ed.M., Ed.S. Dean of Academic Administration and Outcomes

Alain O. Silverio, Ed.M., Ed.S., joined NYCPM in 2012. He brings over twenty-five years of Higher Education experience to his role at the College.

Prior to working at NYCPM, he held a variety of positions in higher education, including Director of Admissions, Director of Financial Aid, and Associate Dean of Academic Administration. He has earned degrees from Georgetown University, Union Theological Seminary, Columbia University's Teacher's College and is currently pursuing a Doctorate in Higher Education from St. Peters University.

Mr. Silverio was promoted to Dean from Assistant Dean in 2022. As Dean of Academic Administration and Outcomes, he assists the VP for Academic Affairs in fulfilling the academic and administrative needs of the College. He is responsible for working with faculty and students as well as with a variety of departments to ensure that the goals of the academic program are met. Lastly, he is also responsible for compiling, analyzing and reporting on the variety of outcomes that result from the academic program.

Specifically, Mr. Silverio has these responsibilities:

- Administer the strategic planning process.
- Review and publication of student handbook.
- Outcome assessment and reporting.
- Preparation of CPME required reports.
- Direct supervision of the Educational Technology Project Manager, Jennifer Lugo.
- Cooperative efforts with Recruitment staff and Admissions Committee.
- Manage agenda and Minutes for Curriculum Committee.
- Oversight of e-curriculum database.
- Preparation of NYSED required reporting.
- Preparation of Academic Calendar.
- Collect and review all syllabi and book lists.