

Atlantis Symposium Covers Wide Range of Topics

Dr. Allen Jacobs and Dr. Charles Zelen

The 2020 Atlantis Foot and Ankle Symposium attracted close to 100 registrants, fellows and residents over the January 17-19 weekend. The meeting was co-chaired by Drs. Charles Zelen, Director, Professional Education Research Institute (PERI), and Allen M. Jacobs, of St. Louis Podiatry Seminar, Inc., and featured lectures by the co-chairs as well as by John Visser, DPM; Lawrence DiDomenico, DPM; Paul Glat, MD, and Michael J. Trepal, DPM, NYCPM's VP of Academic Affairs and Dean. NYCPM served as the academic sponsor of the meeting.

The wide-ranging lectures on Friday were a half-hour in length, which allowed attendees exposure to multiple presentations on many subjects. Saturday featured a morning focus on bunion surgery and an afternoon concentration on rearfoot surgery. Sunday morning's lectures mostly focused on diabetes and the Charcot foot.
