Bryan C. Markinson, DPM ('81), received the highest number of votes cast by podiatrists nationwide and so will be inducted into the PM (Podiatry Management) Hall of Fame, and be honored with the 36th Annual PM Lifetime Achievement Award, the magazine announced in March. The award will be presented at the PM Hall of Fame luncheon held during the APMA national meeting in Denver, CO on July 31st.

Dr. Markinson received his BS cum laude from LIU in 1977, graduated from NYCPM cum laude in 1981, completed his residency and fellowship and then joined the faculty at NYCPM, remaining there until 1995. Sinai's Outpatient Podiatric Clinic. He became an instructor in the division of dermatology at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in 2010.

A prolific lecturer and writer, Dr. Markinson received many testimonials in the pages of Podiatry Management. The author of the article about Dr. Markinson, Dr. Dempsey Springfield of Mount Sinai Medical Center, calls Dr. Markinson, a "true pioneer in the world of podiatric dermatopathology."

Jason Kraus, a podiatric entrepreneur and innovator who contributed greatly to elevating the profession, will also receive a 2021 Lifetime Achievement Award at the same luncheon.
