

NYCPM Sports Medicine Club Helps Feed a Community

Members of NYCPM's Sports Medicine Club volunteered at the Recovery House of Worship's community food pantry in July. In blue club shirts are (from left to right) Student Rep. Emanoil Shafik, Secretary Michael Sapienza, and Treasurer Kimmie Abrams.

In late July, several members of NYCPM's Sports Medicine Club joined other volunteers at Brooklyn's Recovery House of Worship to serve at its community food pantry. The volunteers helped distribute grocery items to 500 members of the community, providing quality food that would help restore health and dignity to those in need. Club treasurer, Kimmie Abrams, planned the event via the church's website, which provides volunteer opportunities. Part of the church's mission is to "help hurting people heal." Anyone interested in volunteering can visit <https://www.hfny.org/affiliates/recovery-house-worship-brooklyn>