

NYCPM
New York College of Podiatric Medicine

Students Screen Special Olympics Athletes at Metro Games at Queens College

Eight NYCPM students recently participated in the Healthy Athletes and Fit Feet Program at the Metro Games at Queens College, part of the Special Olympics of New York, as volunteer doctors screening for foot deformities among the athletes involved. The Fit Feet Program gathers data that, it is hoped, will ultimately provide the athletes with appropriate shoes, better socks and foot care education. Pictured at the event are, from left to right: Front row: students Marisa Aranyanvickul, Josana Joseph, An Nguyen. Back row: students Sara Mohamed, Dayana Sawh, Aamir Ahmed, Sunil Kumar Jeganathan, Gaston Mike Liu, and Pamela S. Hoffman, DPM and Glenn Weiss, DPM, an alumnus of NYCPM.